THE METHODISTS.

The Question of Admitting Women as Lay Delegates Occupies the Attention of the Conference.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Bishop Ninde presided at to-day's session of the general conference. It was resolved to suspend the rules to continue the debate on the admission of women as lay delegates. Forty-one delegates at once claimed the floor.

Rev. H. H. Moore, of the Erie conference was recognized. He spoke in favor of admitting women.

Rev. J. F. Edwards, of the Detroit conference, and editor of the Northwestern Advocate, opposed their admission at the present time, and favored the submission of the question to a vote of the church.

Judge S. N. Taylor, lay delegate from St. Louis, said it would do much harm to admit women at the present time. There were bishops to be elected and other important matters to be voted on and if women were admitted and allowed to vote, and it should be sustained, and decided that women were not entitled to seats, the act of the present general conference would be illegal and unconstitutional.

He quoted the law to sustain his point. He is in favor of the admission of women, he said, but he wanted the question submitted to the vote of the church and to have their seats given them on legal grounds. Rev. Dr. J. H. Bayless, of the Cincinnati conference, argued that if the general conference had power to construe the constitution in regard to the admission of local preachers, it had a right to construe the law in regard to the eligibility of women.

The debate was closed about 1 o'clock and a vote taken on the adoption of Rev. David H. Moore's substitute for the report of the committee. It proposed that the women elected as lay delegates to the present general conference be seated and the question of their eligibility to the future general conferences be determined by a vote of the churches and the annual conferences. This substitute was lost.

Then a vote was taken upon the amendment to the report offered by Rev. Dr. Nesley, of Philadelphia. This amendment excludes women from seats in the present conference, and submits the question of eligibility to the future general conference. It was adopted by a vote of 249 yeas to 173 nays.

ALL ABOUT FENCES.

The Yale Alumni Excited Over the Removal of a Fence.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The proposed removal of the historic fence around the campus at Yale has caused great commotion among the Yale men throughout the east. The fence is to be removed in order to make room for the erection of a recitation building, for which purpose a gentleman has given $125,000.

At a mass meeting of Yale men held in the city a few days ago strong resolutions against the removal were adopted and a petition prepared, which is now being actively circulated in this city, and the men in charge hope to forward it to the corporation of Yale in a few days with the name of every Yale man in New York attached. It is the desire of the committee that Yale men everywhere aid them in their efforts to save the old fence.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The stock market on a very moderate business was strong at the opening of the first business, in the first prices most stocks traded in being from ¼ to ⅜ per cent. higher. The upward movement soon came to an end, however, and at 11 the market was dull and heavy and at the lowest prices of the morning.

The crop of Sunday fights promises well.

Highway Postal Locomotives.

In the South of France the Government postal service is supplemented by the "wagon post" of private contractors, who employ many hundred horses in conveying small parcels from town to town, even along the railway lines. This business has become so extensive that several road locomotives have been ordered for it, and are proving very satisfactory. Two of these machines are running between towns seventy miles apart, each making the trip one way nightly at a speed of eight miles an hour. Part of the road is very hilly, with long gradients up to as much as one in eleven. The locomotive, with coal and water, weighs fifteen tons, and the loaded wagon from seven to ten tons, making the average weight of the train twenty-three tons. At 175 pounds pressure the engines give about twelve horse power, and with fair roads use about half a ton of fuel for the round trip of 140 miles. These engines have been running over six months without interruption.—Arkansaw Traveler

The Man That Runs Up the Flag.

When the gavel of the Speaker of the House falls upon the desk at exactly 12 o'clock each day the flag is hoisted upon the pole that rises from the crest of the cupalo on the House end of the Capitol. John Chauncey, the oldest employe, has this duty to perform. He came to Washington with Thaddeus Stevens, "the great commoner," and when the latter got so weak that he could not walk Chauncey used to carry him up and down the stairs to and from his carriage. It was to him that Mr. Stevens made the remark so often quoted. When he was carrying the statesman into the house one morning as usual Mr. Stevens remarked:

"Chauncey, I wonder who will carry me when you are gone!"

Mr. Chauncey has been in the employ of the House ever since, and his chief duty is to see that the Republican members are in their places when a vote is taken. The Democrats have a man by the name of Ike Hill for the same duty on their side of the hall, and these two know the haunts and habits of every member in the House. If a vote is to be taken at noonday or midnight, it is the duty of Chauncey and Hill to see that the members of their respective parties are present or paired

HOUSE.

A bill was passed to further provide for an appraiser's warehouse at Chicago. It provides to purchase additional land at an expense of $40,000 and fixes the limitation of the cost on the building to be erected on the site finally chosen at $250,000.

A petition for a rehearing of the Bell telephone cases was filed in the clerk's office of the supreme court to-day, by the counsel for the People's telephone company, who claim that Daniel Drawbaugh is the real inventor of the telephone.

The secretary of the treasury has accepted $11,800 in bonds as follows: Coupons 4's, $5,000 at $1.26¼.

The house passed the river and harbor bill.

The Exchange.

The Business Men's exchange will meet to night. Hon J. B. White the president, will occupy the chair and no doubt have a few words of cheer for the association of which he is very proud.

THE SCHOOL CHILDREN.

A New Enumeration to be Taken for the Purpose of Verification.

In each township in the state an enumeration of the school children is taken annually and on a basis of the figures submitted to the state superintendent an apportionment of the school fund is made to the counties by the state.

At times in the past the enumeration from this county has been criticised as excessive, and Superintendent George F. Feltz, gave the reports submitted to him some days ago, from this city, careful scrutiny, with a view to satisfying himself on this point.

His investigations lead him to suspect an excess in the count, brought about by the possibility of a double enumeration. He submitted the facts to the trustees of the city schools. They at once decided to order a new count for the purpose of verification and will employ eighteen experienced men to prosecute the work.

Supt. Felts has submitted to the state attorney general a number of doubtful points for a legal interpretation and expects a reply daily.

The only harm that could result from an excessive enumeration is that the state would have to pay more money into the county school fund than the actual number of children called for.

The number of children of school age in this city has been placed between fourteen and fifteen thousand.

Our Next Congressman.

Lagrange Democrat.

The congressional candidate in this district this year must not be a drawback to the state ticket. He must be one who has not lost his title to democratic consideration by plowing with a republican heifer last year.

A GEORGIA paper amuses its readers by a story about the domestic habits of the owl family. It says that in the early spring the old hen owl lays an egg and immediately sets on it until it is hatched, and then hovers over the little fellow till it becomes full-fledged. When this is done she lays another egg, and the young owlet assumes the material responsibility to hatch out that egg and rear the younger owl. By that time owlet number one is able to fly away, and number two takes his places and hatches out the next egg. This operation continues as long as the season lasts.

IN THE FOG.

Two Steamers Collide on the Ocean and It is Feared One of Them Has Been Lost.

NORFOLK, Va., May 7.—The British steamer Benison, Captain Aitkenhead, from Matanzas to Philadelphia, was towed here to-day in distress, and reports a collision, yesterday afternoon, shortly after 12 o'clock, during a dense fog, with the steamer Eureka, Captain Quick, from New York to New Orleans.

When the fog lifted, about half an hour afterward, the Eureka was nowhere in sight, and it is feared she has sunk. After the collision there was a sound of escaping steam, and one whistle. The Benison's bow is badly stove in, and she would have sunk but for her water tight compartments.

The Eureka is a freight boat boat and carries no passengers. Her crew, all told, numbers thirty-eight persons. The collision occurred 168 miles southeast of Cape Henlopen. The Benison struck the Eureka amid-ships.

In response to a telegram to Captain Diehl, from Kalamazoo, Officer Rohle arrested a confidence man named Sam. Swartz. Officer Morrill came down from Michigan to-day and explained that Swartz victimized Kalamazoo people on a very old game. He represented that he had a big consignment of goods at the depot and wanted money to redeem them. The Kalamazoo people bit and Swartz and his fellows got out with a fat roll only to come to grief here. The fellow gave the Kalamazoo officers $40 and a gold watch to satisfy his theft and was let go. The police are now after his "pals" and Mr. Rohle is just the man to land them.

He Didn't Like Culture.

"Don't talk to me about culture and refinement," said a New York alderman, who had been putting on a great deal of style of late because he had made a little money by keeping saloon.

"What is your objection to a man of culture?" asked the gentleman with whom he was conversing.

"They are so stuck up and are always trying to make you feel their superiority. I never make people feel my culture and refinement. You can run with me for twenty years and never know that I had any."

"That's so," replied the party of the second part.—Texas Siftings.

THE SUNDAY LAW.

Mayor Smith Enforcing the Owen Law at Cincinnati.—One Hundred and Forty-Seven Arrests Yesterday.

CINCINNATI, May 7.—Judge Caldwell, of the police court, to-day sustained a demurrer to the plea in the abatment filed by the counsel for Munzebrook, the saloon keeper who is charged with keeping his saloon open on Sunday. The plea was based upon the allegation that the law is not properly enacted. The court found that the law was enacted in due form.

The defense then demanded a jury and the case set for 3 o'clock this afternoon. Warrants were issued to-day for 147 persons who yesterday violated the Owen law and all who were arrested gave bond. Mayor Smith intimates that he may change his policy next Sunday by arresting at once all who open their saloons.

REV. D. C. WOOLPERT.

His Sermons to the Labor Organizations Yesterday.

A fair sized audience assembled at the Berry Street M. E. Church yesterday morning, to hear Rev. D. C. Woolpert preach to the labor organizations. Mr. Woolpert in the course of his remarks spoke of the evils arising from the present wage system, and said that the only true solution of so momentous a question lies in co-operation, pointing out that hundreds of co-operative institutions are in existence in Europe, including a railway from Paris to Armoins; all of which are a decided success. He deplored red flag communism, and advised his hearers to have no connection with any plots of an anarchistic nature, they being a worse enemy of the labor classes than the capitalistic monopolists who are using their money to crush labor. Passing on further he told his congregation that it was a nonsensical assertion, now being made by a class of labor agitators, that the rich are getting richer and the poor poorer, and in support of his assertion, he contrasted the homes and clothing of the poor man of to-day and the same class fifty years ago; but stated that while the rich are getting richer every year, the poor are getting richer also. He further said that while the general government was passing laws to protect the industries and productions of manufacturers, it was not protecting laboring men by its indifference and failure to devise ways and means by which the ruinous competition between wage workers can be stopped, so as to obviate the necessity of workingmen taking the places of laboring men on a strike, to save themselves and their families from starvation. He said the question of protection to the wage worker would take the brain work of gigantic minds, and how it was possible to fully give them the rights they should enjoy was beyond his power to tell. He deplored the tendency of American freemen, who have accumulated vast wealth through the free system of gathering treasures, towards the aristocratic ideas of the old world. Speaking of foreign emigration to this country he said it was a vast pile of humanity that could not be held in check, and asserted that it would not be wise for this republic to prohibit foreigners from coming here, and predicted that if the United States attempted such measures that it would meet with a fate at the hands of the European nations, similar to that meted out by the Goths and Vandals to the Roman Empire, but said that instead of restricting foreign emigration the government and the people should take measures to rapidly Americanize them and make the brotherhood of mankind more complete. In conclusion he said that the only hope of the laboring classes was in the teachings of the Bible, which calls upon all men to treat each other as brothers, and further said that if all men showed a disposition to follow the teachings of the Nazarene, it would be unnecessary for laboring men to combine for the purpose of securing what they consider fair remuneration for their labor.

In the evening Rev. Woolpert's subject, "Brain vs. Brawn, or Labor vs. Capital," was listened to by a much larger congregation than the morning sermon. At this service he spoke of the wrongs the people are subjected to by the large corporations owning the lines of travel and communication, and said it was time for the government to assert the right of eminent domain, and predicted that if the present condition of affairs exists for fifty years more, the mass of the American people will be in greater poverty than the people of Ireland are to-day. He quoted several planks from the Knights of Labor declaration of principles which he heartily endorsed, and said that the present system, which allows the embellishment of a few to the poverty and semi starvation of many, is wrong. He denounced the clergy for not taking a bold stand on the question of labor's wrongs, and said it would be better if the churches were abandoned, rather than have the theologians indifferent on so vital a matter.

THE national democratic convention meets in less than a month.

CONGRESS has passed a law increasing the salaries of federal circuit judges. They will receive $8,000 a year now instead of $2,400, as heretofore.

STATISTICIANS say that there is a deficit of some 80,000,000 bushels of wheat in the three leading wheat growing states. There is little doubt that the winter wheat crop will fall exceptionally short. In the central states the severe winter of 1888, following the long drought of last fall, very materially damaged the grain, and the spring weather has not bettered it much. In Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan, four states which ordinarily produce about 40 per cent. of our winter wheat, it is safe to pedict that the estimated shortage will not fall below fifty million bushels.

WARDEN PATTEN. of the prison south, in his quarterly report, shows receipts to be $18,902.34; expenditures, $17,724.78; net receipts, $1,179.56. The receipts of the previous quarter were also in excess of the expenditures, demonstrating that Warden Patten has succeeded in placing the institution on a paying basis, and this in face of the fact that large sums have been paid out for repairs in finishing the chapel, constructing a bath house and improving the prison service. No reforms are needed in the Hoosier penitentiaries just now, thanks to Senator Barrett and his investigating committee in the last legislature.

PROPOSITION TO CHANGE THE INDIANA CONVICT LABOR SYSTEM.

Representative Jacob Covert, who was appointed at the last session of the legislature as chairman of a committee with Messrs. Morse and Schley to devise plans by which the penal institutions of Indiana might be improved with a view, if possible, to utilizing the convict labor without bringing it in competition with the free, legitimate labor of the outside world, has been detailing his plans for isolating the penitentiary output and as they are to be submitted to the next legislature, his ideas are well worth consideration.

After removing the prisons from their present sites to a central portion of the state, far from Chicago and Louisville influences, because, as he puts it, "our officers have been tampered with and bribed in the interest of nonresidents of the state and legislative committees feted and blinded into making favorable reports."

Then Mr. Covert would employ such of the convicts as were familiar with wood-work in the construction and manufacture of school furniture, and such other supplies in that line as is consumed or used by the public schools, or by the state and county officers, the same to be supplied to the several township trustees or county commissioners at a low uniform rate. This would completely shut off all the avenues of jobbery with these officials and thereby lessen the exodus to Canada, he says. When it is taken into consideration that we have 9,861 school buildings in the state, to be annually replenished or completely furnished, it must be apparent to everyone that a large amount would thus be saved to the tax-payers that would otherwise go to fatten the purses of the contractors for other states for the furnishing of such supplies, and place a check upon the pernicious habit of subsidizing the people's servants who are now delegated to make such purchases.

Another department, he thinks, could be employed in the manufacture of such articles of clothing and furnishing supplies as are needed by the several institutions—the reformatories for women, girls and boys, the four insane hospitals and the county asylums, which annually consume a vast amount, purchased at extravagant prices as compared to those at which the state could furnish the same by the means indicated.

The largest portion of the convicts could be used on the stockades in quarrying and breaking stone for road purposes, and for concrete foundations for public buildings.

The stone broken by the convicts should be furnished to the several counties of the state, or to city governments, at the cost of production. Each county should send in its requisition for as many car loads as needed each year, dividing the amount pro rata among the different townships, according to the amount of road tax paid by each, and the same judiciously applied would, in a few years, give us passable good roads at all seasons of the year, and in time our highways would be equal, if not superior, to those of any state in the union, and at a nominal cost to the counties as compared to any other mode of improvement. In order to guarantee its success it might be necessary to repeal the present existing road laws, and require, by enactment of a new law, that road or poll-tax should be paid in cash, and not allow the option of working it out on the roads, as at present. And the matter of supervision should be placed in the hands of practical, competent men, who would see that the improvements, however small, should be substantial.

Another means of employment for convicts, especially if the northern prison must be maintained, would be to use them in the ditching of swamp or waste lands in the northern portions of the state, of which there are thousands of acres lying idle, and, of course, returning no revenue from taxation. A systematic course of ditching would soon bring the swamp lands into the market for farming purposes, from which a great annual revenue would derived from taxation. The lands so improved could be assessed by the state their proportion in accordance with the benefits which accrue by improvement.

Mr. Covert's proposition to make the convicts supply and maintain, as far as practicable, the institution of the state, are entirely tenable, and likely to meet with favor, if the question comes up for consideration. The idea of improving the highways of the state, while a worthy one, is not likely to receive approval, but does suggest to the county commissioners of the state, especially in cities, a means of improving the public roads through their jail service.

WM. KAOUGH,
Postmaster.

THE Dakota newspaper correspondent who has been so busy with the details of the wedding of Miss Fellows to Chaska, the Sioux Indian, is said to be in danger of losing his scalp. Jacob Robb, post-trader at the Cheyenne Indian Agency, is the gentleman who was quoted as the only white man present at the wedding. He is now in Pierre looking for the correspondent, and says that the story was manufactured and of whole cloth; that there is no such Indian as Chaska, and that Miss Fellows is still teaching school, with no intention of marrying Chaska or any other redskin. Mr. Robb is said to be very indignant over the reported interviews with him.

In the spring, hundreds of persons suffer from boils, carbuncles, and other eruptive diseases. These are evidences that the system is trying to purge itself of impurities, and that it needs the powerful aid which is afforded by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Mental Processes of Twins.

Regarding interesting resemblances in the mental processes of twins, Cornhill says: "In one case a couple of twins (men) had a quarrel over a perfectly unimportant matter. They came to very high words, and parted from one another in bad blood. On returning to their rooms—they lived apart—each of them suffered from a fit of remorse, and sat down to write a letter of contrition to the other, to be delivered by the morning post. After writing it one brother read his letter over, and, recalling the cause of the quarrel, added at once a long postscript, justifying himself and opening the whole question at issue. The other brother posted his note at once, but thinking the matter over quietly, afterward regretted his action again, and supplemented it by a second palinodia, almost unsaying what he had said in the first one. I saw all three letters myself the next morning, and was simply amazed at their absolute sameness of feeling and expression.

"The other story relates to a fact which happened, not to twins, but to two successive brothers extremely like one another in build and feature, and evidently modeled in mind and character of the self-same moods. It is only a small incident, but as I can vouch for the correctness of the minutest details it has a certain psychological interest of its own. They met a lady dressed in blue whom they had never seen before at a military dance. Each of them asked at once to be introduced to her at first sight; each asked the same officer for an introduction (though each had several friends in common present); each described her in the same way—not as 'the lady in blue' (the most obvious point of appearance about her), but as 'the lady with the beautiful ears'; each fell desperately in love with her off-hand, and each asked her for a particular flower out of a little boquet containing four or five more conspicuous blossoms. Finally each came up at the end of the evening to confide in the same married lady of their acquaintance their desire to see more of the beautiful stranger."

Two great enemies—Hood's Sarsaparilla and impure blood. The latter is utterly defeated by the peculiar medicine.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. mar-17-1y

MR. JAMES REDPATH, the lecturer, who has been dangerously ill, denies that he has turned Catholic. At a critical period of his illness the last rites were administered to him by Dr. McGlynn and other priests, and he now thanks them for it, but he is still a rationalist, although he would join the Catholic Church if he joined any.

a man for groaning when he has Rheumatism or Neuralgia. The pain is simply awful. No torture in the ancient time was more painful than these two diseases. But—oughtn't a man to be blamed if, having Rheumatism or Neuralgia, he wont use Athlophoros, when it has cured thousands who have suffered in the same way? It has cured hundreds after physicians have pronounced them incurable.

"The skill of five physicians could not cure me of Rheumatism which had settled in the muscles of my back and shoulders. So intense was the pain that sleep was almost impossible. The first dose of Athlophoros gave me relief and the third enabled me to sleep for four and a half hours without waking. I continued it, was cured and am now well."

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH. Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT, used vigorously is death to Swinney, Wind Galls, Sore Backs.

A NEW FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH.

A Story About a Wonderful Spring on American Island, in the Missouri.

[St Paul Globe.]

For the last six years—ever since the foundation of Chamberlain—the Sioux Indians have endeavored to prevent the whites from getting possession of American Island, which lies in the center of the Missouri River. It was always supposed that their reason was of a mercenary character and that their object was to cut the timber with which the island is covered and turn it into the bright, yellow gold which they now covet so much.

But a different reason has lately, and by accident, been discovered. It has always been supposed that when the Spaniards failed to discover the fabled fountain of perpetual youth among the everglades of Florida the romantic dream ended there and men grew old and gray as of yore. Not so, however, as this narrative will show. On the upper end of this island, hidden by drooping evergreens and shaded by stately cottonwoods, is a spring. It bursts forth clear and beautiful, and, with a murmur as soft as a maiden's prayer, glides from its island home into the yellow, gurgling waters of the Missouri. The water retains the same temperature winter and summer, and its volume retains its uniformity throughout the year. It contains, in all probability, the different carbonates, and that is the cause of the youth-retaining qualities which Indians attribute to it.

The secret was let out not long ago by an old hunter, who was familiar with the Indians and the spring long before this place existed in the fervid imagination of John H. King. They have thrown a sanctity around it, and for years have been in the habit of drinking of its life-giving principles and of immersing the younger members of the tribe in its mystical depths. They imagine that its source lies amid the perpetual fires that radiate from the center of the earth, and that the fountain is presided over by the father of the Indian race, who is doomed throughout all time to regulate the temperature of the spring for the benefit of those who dread to see the footprints of old time mar their classic features.

When asked if all who drink from its liquid depths are stamped with perpetual youth they are somewhat abashed and reply: "When they drink of the water or bathe in it they must believe they will never grow old. If they do not the spirit who has control of the fountain will not answer their prayer, and they will wither like the leaves when the frost comes." The only explanation for this strange belief is that some time in the past the spring was visited and analyzed by some parties, and the Indians hearing of it, have been led to believe that the spring contains some remarkable properties, which their imaginative minds have associated with the perpetuation of their youth.

A Sensible Animal.

The "Listener" saw an instance of intelligence on the part of a dog the other day which was very remarkable as uniting a high degree of politeness with excellent understanding. Crossing the ferry from East Boston, he noticed, sitting on the side of the passage-way, a gentleman who was accompanied by an immense and very handsome St. Bernard dog. Directly opposite were two young ladies who could not restrain their admiration for the dog, and made evident signs of a desire to be friendly with him. The dog, however, looked at his master and declined to budge. But presently the gentleman remarked quietly, "Go over and see the ladies;" whereupon the animal moved promptly across the passage-way and wagged his tail amiably while the young ladies patted his head and raved over him. But presently came the remarkable exhibition of politeness referred to. The wharf was reached, and the passengers rose and moved toward the street cars. One of the young women carried a basket, and this basket the dog insisted upon taking in his mouth. The lady gave it to him and he walked proudly toward the car with it, casting a glance toward his master who remained standing on the platform. He entered the street car with the basket, deposited it in the lap of the young lady when she had seated herself, and then whisked ponderously out and rejoined him master. It was a clear case of a friendly service courteously performed.—Boston Transcript.

Julius Cæsar.

The spirit, which confined government to its simplest duties, while it left opinion unfettered, was especially present in Julius Cæsar. From cant of all kinds he was totally free. He was a friend of the people, but he indulged in no enthusiasm for liberty. He never dilated on the beauties of virtue, or complimented, as Cicero did, a Providence in which he did not believe. He was too sincere to stoop to unreality. He held to the facts of this life and to his own convictions, and as he found no reason for supposing that there was a life beyond the grave he did not pretend to expect it. He respected the religion of Roman state as an institution established by the laws. He encouraged or left unmolested the creeds and practices of the uncounted sects or tribes who were gathered under the eagles. But his own writings contain nothing to indicate that he had any religious belief at all. He saw no evidence that the gods practically interfered in human affairs. He never pretended that Jupiter was on his side. He thanked his soldiers after a victory, but he did not order Te Deums to be sung for it; and in the absence of these conventionalisms he perhaps showed more real reverence than he could have displayed by the freest use of the formulas of pietism.

He fought his battles to establish some tolerable degree of justice in the government of this world; and he succeeded though he was murdered for doing it.

Strange and startling resemblance between the fate of the founder of the kingdom of this world, and the founder of the kingdom not of this world, for which the first was a preparation. Each was denounced for making himself a king. Each was maligned as the friend of publicans and sinners; each was betrayed by those whom he had loved and cared for; each was put to death; and Cæsar also was believed to have risen again and ascended into Heaven and become a divine being.—James Anthony Froude.

FOOD TESTS IN NEW YORK.

Official Analysis of Baking Powders—Adulterations in Cream of Tartar.

Under the direction of the New York State Board of Health, eighty-four different kinds of baking powders, embracing all the brands that could be found for sale in the state, were submitted to examination and analysis by Prof. C. F. Chandler, a member of the State Board and President of the New York City Board of Health, assisted by Prof. Edward G. Love, the well known United States Government chemist.

The official report shows that a large number of the powders examined were found to contain alum or lime; many of them to such an extent as to render them seriously objectionable for use in the preparation of food.

Alum was found in twenty-nine samples. This drug is employed in baking powders to cheapen their cost. The presence of lime is attributed to the impure cream of tartar of commerce used in their manufacture. Such cream of tartar was also analyzed and found to contain lime and other impurities; in some samples to the extent of 93 per cent. of their entire weight.

All the baking powders of the market, with the single exception of "Royal" (not including the alum and phosphate powders, which have not the virtue of even an impure cream of tartar), are made from the adulterated cream of tartar of commerce, and consequently contain lime to a corresponding extent.

The only baking powder yet found by chemical analysis to be entirely free from lime and absolutely pure is the "Royal." This perfect purity results from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other and on account of this greater cost is used in no baking powder but the "Royal."

Prof. Love, who made the analysis of baking powders for the New York state board of health, as well as for the government, says of the purity and wholesomeness of the "Royal":

"I find the Royal Baking Powder composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphate or other injurious substance.

E. G. LOVE, PH. D."

It is highly satisfactory to the housekeepers of this vicinity, where the Royal Baking Powder is in general use, that the investigations by the analysis in Massachusetts, New York, and Ohio, the only States that have thus far taken action upon this important subject, agree in classing it as the purest and most efficient baking powder in the market.

A WEST POINT cadet, who bombarded his superior officer with a big baked potato, was sentenced to dismissal from the service, but the President, in view of his previous good record and excellent scholarship, has commuted his punishment to the loss of all privileges during the coming summer and imprisonment within the police limits of the summer encampment. The young potato hurler thus forfeits his three months' summer vacation, and will become well acquainted with his solitary little military tent.

The Exiles of Russia.

The St. Petersburg Listok states that in the government of Yakutsk and Yeneseisk, according to the official returns, there are over 110,000 exiles, or rather are supposed to be. By an actual census of the government there are only 42,000 in actual confinement and 20,000 who have been released to work and abide as colonists under police supervision; 48,000, 45 per cent. of the total number of persons exiled to that part of Siberia, have disappeared. Some may have escaped; of the others nothing is known. In western Siberia the per cent of the missing is even greater, as 33 per cent. only can be found in the body by the taker of the census and 67 per cent. are unaccounted for.

What must be the system under which there is no record since 1830 of a single person being permitted to return a free man, and live outside of Muscovy to tell the tale of imprisonment? There is not a country in the world besides but can point to a number of cases of persons who have endured their sentences, returned to their homes and been permitted to leave their country and relate their experiences. Why is Russia thus an exception?—Springfield Republican.

LOST.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz.: a good appetite."

EMPEROR WILLIAM was chivalrous towards women of all degrees. He kissed the hands of ladies who were of his circle when he met them in private, and, like Louis XIV., he would stand aside to let [illegible] pass before him.

Why You Feel

So weak and exhausted is because your blood is impure. As well expect the sanitary condition of a city to be perfect with defiled water and defective sewerage, as to expect such a complicated piece of mechanism as the human frame to be in good order with impure blood circulating even to its minutest veins. Do you know that every drop of your two or [illegible] gallons of blood passes through the heart and lungs in about two and a half minutes, and that, on its way, it makes bone and muscle, brain and nerve, and all other solids and fluids of the body? The blood is the great nourisher, or, as the Bible terms it,

"The Life of the Body."

Is it any wonder, then, that if the blood be not pure and perfect in its constituents, you suffer so many indescribable symptoms?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla stands "head and shoulders" above every other Alterative and Blood Medicine. As proof, read these reliable testimonies:

G. C. Brock, of Lowell, Mass., says: "For the past 25 years I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In my opinion, the best remedial agencies for the cure of all the diseases arising from impurities of the blood are contained in this medicine."

Eugene I. Hill, M. D., 381 Sixth Ave., New York, says: "As a blood-purifier and general builder-up of the system, I have never found anything to equal Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It gives perfect satisfaction."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla proves equally efficacious in all forms of Scrofula, Boils, Carbuncles, Eczema, Humors, Lumbago, Catarrh, &c.; and is, therefore, the very best

Spring and Family Medicine in use. "It beats all," says Mr. Cutler, of Cutler Brothers & Co., Boston, "how

One of these little slips of paper is to be presented to each engineer and fireman and every conducter and brakeman that were in charge of the trains that carried the Vanderbilt party over the different divisions of the road during the recent tour of inspection. C. L. Dasseler, the shipping clerk at the Pittsburg shops, caught a bass Saturday afternoon, weighing two and one-fourth pounds. Christ thought it was a much larger fish from the fight it made for liberty while in the water, but he handled it all the same, "smoling a smile" as he did so. Christ now wears the medal.

William Price, of the Bass works, has returned from a visit at Crestline, Ohio, but has not gone to work, on account of injuries he received while away. In alighting from the train at Crestline he was thrown to the ground and severely injured about the face and legs and had his wrist dislocated. He was at the works this morning with his head tied up and looking like an invalid.

A light road cart shipped from a firm up in Michigan to a party in this city was standing in the Pittsburg freight office this morning. It attracted considerable attention because it had on it a card with this curious inscription: "I am not an omnibus, only a road cart. I am guaranteed to carry 425 pounds with ease, but if you should overload me I might cause you trouble, and then you would blame the maker because I was not an omnibus."

WHERE TO BE BORN.

The First of a Series of Sermons to Young Men by Rev. Northrop.

Last evening Rev. S. A. Northrop, the pastor of the First Baptist church, commenced a series of eight sermons to young men on "The Causes and Conditions of Success in Life," which he proposes continuing during the coming summer Sunday evenings. The subject of his opening sermon last evening was, "The Cradle, or Where to be Born." It was one full of interest and profit to the young and the old, and every seat in the auditorium was occupied to hear the popular and eloquent divine.

His introductory sermon was a masterly effort. The cradle of the successful business or professional man, the speaker thought, should be in the country. The rural districts seemed to offer better opportunities for the formation of character than the city and statistics showed that the great majority of our prominent men in commercial, professional and political life were born either on the farm or in the small hamlets and villages of the country. Eighty-seven per cent. of the business and professional men of this city, he said, spent their childhood days in the country, and came to the city after the foundations for a successful after career had been laid.

He did not believe that the city-bred youth was debarred from attaining success in life or rising to positions of greatness in the world, but their childhood days were surrounded with influences and temptations that prevented them from forming that sturdy character and true manhood that was essential to success, and they either fell victims to the monster vices of the world, or had their energies impaired or abilities dwarfed by contact with it.

It was the country lad who had filled the presidential chair of the nation, and in all the list not a single one has been born in a large city. To-day the majority of the distinguished statesmen in the country, the brilliant writers, the great orators, and the successful business and professional men trace their birth-place to a rural home. This is the cradle of the men who rule the destinies of the nation and it will continue to be as long as time shall last, unless the young man who is born in the city has the fortitude and the Christian character to successfully fight the obstacles and the temptations that beset his pathway.

Rev. D. S. Kennedy, the pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, led the afternoon services yesterday at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association and delivered a talk that was attentively listened to by the large number of men present. He took the text "Lord What Wilt Thou Have Me to Do," as the foundation of his remarks and urged his hearers to an earnest, personal Christian work. Every follower of Christ, he said, should after prayerful consideration choose his work in the vineyard of the Lord and prosecute it with earnestness. His talk, an eloquent and practical one, was calculated to arouse new interest in the Y. M. C. A. work.

Rev. J. M. Fulton, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, delivered an interesting and instructive sermon to the children yesterday morning. In the evening no services were held in the church on account of the sickness of Rev. Fulton, his physician advising him not to preach.

BOB M'KEE.

Two Highwaymen Relieve Him of $20 Last Night.

Bob McKee is a character well known about town. He now lives in the county south of the city, but formerly lived on Harrison street, where his quarrels with his wife and subsequent incarceration in an asylum are recalled.

Last night he was at Miller's saloon, on Fairfield avenue, and looked into a few goblets of lager.

After leaving the place he was attacked on the street and knocked down. His assailants, two young men, relieved him of $20.

Mr. McKee reports the case to the police.

VEST, Vilas, Voorhees, and Vance have all been named in connection with the Democratic nomination for the vice presidency, but it is not believed that the next occupant of the second office will "spell it with a we."

Arcadian Waukesha Ginger Ale

—AND—

Aerated Arcadian Waukesha Mineral Water.

Bottled direct at the springs, at Waukesha, Wisconsin. Awarded the gold medal at the world's exposition at New Orleans, defeating all competitors, both foreign and domestic.

The Arcadian Ginger Ale

Is of rare excellence, being pronounced superior to the imported and unapproached by any domestic variety. Prepared in a completely equipped laboratory under the direct supervision of the vice president of the company, and made from the choicest variety of freshly imported Jamaica Ginger Root, the juices of tropical fruits, Arcadian Water direct from the spring, and loaf sugar, it has been pronounced by eminent medical authority the most perfect example of an aromatic, non-alcoholic stomach stimulant, while as a beverage it is simply delicious. Arcadian Ginger Ale is a delightful beverage in either hot or cold weather, and no summer drink is more healthful or refreshing.

The Arcadian Aerated Water

Is also unrivaled as a Natural Mineral Water of phenomenal purity, charged with pure carbonic acid gas. Of it such eminent authority as Prof. Henry M. Lyman: "The Aerated Arcadian Water is far superior as a table water to the much vaunted Apollinaris. It can confidently be recommeded in preference to every other variety."
